CIRCULARITY

The circular economy is a model of production and consumption in which products and materials are shared, leased, reused, repaired, refurbished, and recycled for as long as possible. This extends the life cycle of the products and conserves resources.

The rise of circular textiles is part of a larger trend toward sustainability and environmental responsibility in the fashion industry. FAB 2025 will set the stage for a deeper exploration of how circular principles are applied in textile production, use, and end-of-life management.
